

Many different kinds of bulk can be transhipped: oil products, coal, chemicals, LPG, biofuels, agribulk, minerals, etc. The buoys and dolphins can also be used briefly as lay-by berth or for bunkering or repairs.

Everything you need for a smooth operation

The Port of Rotterdam is constantly updating its berthing facilities to offer an optimal service. And it's not only the berths that set Rotterdam apart. Europe's biggest port has all the service providers and facilities necessary for the efficient organisation of ship-to-ship transfers: from surveyors to suppliers of hoses and fenders. In Rotterdam, all maritime and nautical services are of the highest quality, in every respect. Everything and everybody are devoted to perform in a speedy, safe and sustainable manner. Furthermore, Europe's number one bunker port offers attractive fuel prices.

Online reservation

The Port of Rotterdam Authority manages all the buoys & dolphins. Reservations for berths can be made online 24/7, simply and transparently, using the KING reservation system. Details about tariffs and how to request a berth at the buoys and dolphins can be found at www.portofrotterdam.com/sts

SHIP-TO-SHIP

ENDLESS POSSIBILITIES IN ROTTERDAM

The Port of Rotterdam provides 25 multi-user berths for ship-to-ship transfers throughout the port area. Vessels of any size and any draft can moor at these buoys and dolphins in Rotterdam's sheltered waters for risk-free, continuous and efficient transhipment of all types of dry or liquid cargo, or for repairs, bunkering, cleaning and lay-by.

With 25 multi-user berths in the Maasvlakte, Europoort, Botlek and Dordrecht, the Port of Rotterdam offers flexible, efficient and risk-free ship-to-ship transfers facilities for all kinds of cargo. Unhindered by tides or locks, ships of all sizes have 24/7 access to the buoys and dolphins in Rotterdam's sheltered waters. The buoys and dolphins are therefore an attractive addition to the facilities at the terminals in the port and an excellent alternative for ship-to-ship transfers at offshore locations on the open sea.

Safe and environment-friendly

The sheltered locations enable ship-to-ship operations to proceed even under less favourable weather conditions at the berths in the port of Rotterdam. All of this in a risk-free, environmentally friendly, efficient and safe manner.
